Sputnik May Spark Education

FINDLAY — Dr. Robert Van Auken told members of the Findlay Kiwanis Club that Sputnik could be the greatest thing that ever happened if it would shake us out of complacency into some concrete thinking.

"Education and Sputnik" was the topic of an address given by Dr. Van Auken at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis Club. He said that the only way to create scientists in this country to cope with the dangerous challenge facing the country is to expand the nation's entire educational system.

"You don't press a button and turn out a scientist. You cultivate one over a long period of time," he pointed out.

In order to meet the challenge facing us today Dr. Van Auken said "our youngsters must be more honest, more moral and must be taught to think better than we can or our nation cannot survive."

The superintendent indicated that a longer school year and even summer classes both for those who are lagging and those who are in advance of their classes, might be advisable to step up the educational program.
